Marquard Sacrificed for Pinch Hitter, but Wiltse Holds the Cardinals to One Hit.

detting an errorless game out of their system, the Giants were emboldened into making it three out of four with St. Louis by winning a tight same at the Polo Grounds yesterday afternoon. "Rube" Marquard started out to engage Sallee in a pitching duel, but was sidetracked in the fifth inning, when New York started rally which was nipped in the full vigor of its youth. Wiltse finished the game and was credited with the ultimate victory, the score being 3 to 2.

Although he pitched good ball, the Cardinals scored both of their runs off Marquard. But judging from Sallee's actions McGraw sensed difficulty in winning, and he sacrificed "Rube" at the first opportu-The New York star was lost in the suffic of players when Bresnahan and he "Little Napoleon" tried to checkmate ing with a fierce rap, which struck third base and bounded backward for a hit. ## ATTELL TAKES BEATING Former Champion Outpointed by Harry Thomas.

Beats a Tattoo on the Head and Body of His Rival in Fast Bout.

Harry Thomas, of England, outpointed

Abe Attell, the former featherweight champion of the world, in ten fast rounds of boxing at Madison Square Garden last night. There was no doubt about the wisner, and the bout brought out more clearly than ever before that Attell's best days are over. Those who saw the once man vellous boxer take punch after punch or the head after vainly endeavoring to block or in some other way avoid them could not for a moment wonder how it was that the younger and more powerful Johnny Kilbane had comparatively little trouble in deposing him as champlon. Times there were when it was the old Attell, clever, crafty and cool, who con fronted the elusive Briton, but by the time that the ninth round came around Abe was flat-footed and weary, able to box in spasmodic bursts of savage fury, come medicine. Thomas was a surprise to the handful of spectators who attended the contest He danced around the little Californian poking a worrisome left-hand jab to the punch had little force to it, but it was almost omnipresent. Attell shifted, danced and then hooked his punches, but Thon situation and step in with his straight leads, and Abe's head would flop back or his shoulders. After a while the punc slipped home with increasing force, and Attell spat blood from his mouth from a slight wound inside his lower lip. Thomof smothering Attell's intighting that kept him out of danger.

Attell worked hard in the beginning and in the middle of the first round it appeared as if he would win almost in an opening, and like a flash crashed his right over on the tip of the chin. Thomas staggered across the ring for a few steps, but when Attell plunged in to follow life lead Harry lashed out with a savage left that landed a bit high to do any barn stayed out of reach for a few seconds before coming back to force the battle.

Briton's guard did his most effective work. Thomas had a body of steel apparently, for no matter how heavy the broadsides which his opponent slamm inch of the way.
